A CHRISTMAS GIFT FOR YOU

The gift that keeps on giving.

YOUR IDEAS. YOUR CONFIDENCE. YOUR NEXT ADVENTURE.

A little encouragement this Christmas.
A world of possibilities to explore.

Ask Coach. Explore an idea. Start a Business Fund.
For teens aged 12–18, with a parent or guardian.

GroMe is currently free to access; future pricing may change. This card is a personal invitation, not a paid membership, cash voucher or guarantee of lifetime access. It has no cash value.

FOR THE TEEN

What would you like to try?

No perfect plan needed. Choose something that interests you.

- [ ] Ask Coach. See how.

  Bring a question or browse ready-made business ideas. Get practical steps and an example. A sourced founder story is included when a relevant verified match is available.

- [ ] Save your idea. Start a Business Fund.

  Keep a useful plan in My Ideas. Ask Coach about likely costs, then choose a fund name and target for a small first test. Estimates are not guaranteed prices.

- [ ] Earn towards it with parent tasks.

  Agree useful tasks and rewards with your parent. They create tasks in Parent Zone; you can set aside earned Vault rewards in your fund. Your parent supplies the money, not GroMe.

An idea to explore: personalised bookmarks

Ask Coach how to make one sample, find an interested customer and estimate materials. Test interest with people your parent knows before buying more supplies. Parent-agreed tasks could help you earn towards that budget.

An illustration, not a real success story or a promise of income. Start with your interests.

Choose a pace that works for you. These are ideas to explore, not Christmas homework.

Ready when you are.

Open GroMe with a parent or guardian.
Ask Coach or browse business ideas. No perfect plan needed.

Give encouragement. Leave room for discovery.

A thoughtful gift doesn't have to be a paid subscription.

1

Make it personal

Write the teen's name and a message on the gift card. Tell them something you appreciate about their curiosity, creativity or effort.

2

Let Coach help them explore

They can ask a question or browse business ideas, see how an idea could work and save a plan. Let their interests lead; no challenge questions or worksheet to complete.

3

Get started together

Visit grome.live and follow the current signup instructions. If you're not their parent or guardian, let their parent or guardian handle account setup. No account is created by this gift card.

4

Give their effort a purpose

Parents create custom tasks and agree rewards in Parent Zone. Teens can earmark earned Vault rewards for their Business Fund. Encourage a small first test, not a guaranteed business outcome.

Your support. Their Business Fund.

Agree rewards you can afford and pay them outside GroMe. A Business Fund earmarks an existing tracked balance; it does not create extra money. GroMe does not hold or transfer funds.

A separate money gift is optional and is not automatically credited by the card. Fund names and budgets can appear in parent progress views; private Coach plans and conversations are not automatically shared.

A few things to know

GroMe is currently free to access; future pricing may change. This pack does not include a paid plan or lifetime access. It makes no promise of earnings or business success.

Keep activities age-appropriate. Use trusted people for feedback, and agree any spending or real-world selling with a parent or guardian.
